□ Deadlines & Time-Sensitive Items

Read this first. Missing a legal deadline can end a case. The dates below are estimates generated automatically — always confirm the exact date with the court or a lawyer.

△ on March 9 I gave HR the doctor's note and asked, real polite, can I get moved to the scan station or use the lift assist for the heavy stuff.

- Estimated deadline: 2027-01-03
- Basis: 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1), applied to ADA claims via 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a) (in a deferral state such as Minnesota, an EEOC charge must be filed within 300 days of the discriminatory act; each discrete act — a denial of accommodation, a discharge — has its own clock).
- Triggering event: served on 2026-03-09
- Jurisdiction: MN
- To sue for disability discrimination under federal law (the ADA), you usually must first file a charge with the EEOC within 300 days of the discriminatory act in Minnesota (42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1); § 12117(a)). Each separate act — being denied an accommodation, being fired — starts its own 300-day clock, so the EARLIEST act controls for that claim. Note: since Oct. 1, 2025 the state (MDHR) and the EEOC no longer automatically cross-file, so protect BOTH by filing with each. Estimated — confirm the exact date with the court or a lawyer.

△ on April 6 I received an email saying no lifting up to 50 pounds is an 'essential function.'

Executive Summary

This intake identified 14 possible legal issues in Federal and Minnesota law. The three main issues that have the most support are Disability Discrimination - Failure to Accommodate (not providing necessary adjustments for a person with a disability), Failure to Notify of FMLA Rights (not informing an employee of their rights under the Family and Medical Leave Act), and Retaliation - Employment Decision (punishing an employee for asserting their rights). A deadline for filing a claim is important: on March 9, I gave HR the doctor's note and politely asked if I could be moved to the scan station or use a lift assist for heavy items. The deadline to file a complaint is January 3, 2027, based on 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-5(e)(1), which is linked to ADA claims under 42 U.S.C. § 12117(a). In Minnesota, a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) must be filed within 300 days of the act of discrimination, and every separate act—like refusing accommodations or firing someone—has its own separate deadline. Safety concerns were noted in this situation; please see the safety resources below. The analysis is 75% complete, and answering the 5 follow-up questions below would help improve the assessment.

FOLIO IRI: <https://folio.openlegalstandard.org/RCmAarh6Wj8m6lLe6lJJBmj>

ISSUE

Gideon was put on leave, which might have ignored his rights under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), because he did not get the information or documents he needed about his rights and benefits while he was on leave.

RULE

No authorities identified for this claim.

APPLICATION

- Eligible Employee: Unsupported - The employee must be eligible for FMLA leave.
- Serious Health Condition: Unsupported - The employee must have a serious health condition that requires leave.
- Notice Requirement: Supported (85% confidence) - The employer must provide required FMLA notices and documents to the employee.
 - Fact: Nobody ever said a word to me about FMLA when they put me on leave. (85% match)
 - Fact: Nobody ever gave me any paperwork when they put me on leave. (85% match)

- Leave Entitlement: Supported (81% confidence) - The employee is entitled to take leave under FMLA.
 - Fact: Temporary modified duty assignments are reserved for employees recovering from work-related injuries covered by workers' compensation. (81% match)

FOLIO IRI: <https://folio.openlegalstandard.org/RsHKmukY8RoJdJO1gsTCxN>

ISSUE

HR's (Human Resources) lack of response to Gideon's requests for accommodations (adjustments to help him work better) and the consequences of him being put on unpaid leave (not getting paid while off work) could indicate that he was constructively discharged (forced to leave his job because of unbearable conditions). Disability Discrimination - Failure to Accommodate

Claim Type: discovered | Confidence: 90%

FOLIO IRI: <https://folio.openlegalstandard.org/R8f088bmlfkWDbXdJj9nQD9>

ISSUE

Gideon asked for a reasonable accommodation (a change to help him work better) because of his herniated disc, but he was denied a transfer to a lighter duty scan station even though he was qualified for that job. Furthermore, the company did not clearly explain the options available to him under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), which provides certain rights related to medical leave.

RULE

APPLICATION

- Disability: Supported (85% confidence) - The employee has a recognized disability under the law.
 - Fact: Gideon has a herniated disc L4-L5. (85% match)
- Request for Accommodation: Supported (85% confidence) - The employee made a request for a reasonable accommodation due to the disability.
 - Fact: In February, Gideon's doctor put him on a restriction of no lifting over 35 pounds. (85% match)
 - Fact: I asked HR if I can get moved to the scan station or use the lift assist for the heavy stuff. (85% match)
- Denial of Accommodation: Supported (85% confidence) - The employer denied the requested accommodation.
 - Fact: Tri-State Fulfillment Group is unable to grant the requested accommodation. (85% match)
 - Fact: Reassignment to a scanning station is not available in Gideon's case. (85% match)
- Essential Functions: Supported (85% confidence) - The requested accommodation would allow the employee to perform the essential functions of their job.
 - Fact: The Picker I position requires the ability to lift up to 50 lbs on a regular basis. (85% match)
 - Fact: Gideon's leave was contingent on a return to full duty with no restrictions by May 22, 2026. (85% match)
- Employer's Knowledge: Supported (85% confidence) - The employer had knowledge of the employee's disability and accommodation request.

- [] [URGENT] Separate from being fired, the law required your employer to seriously discuss a 'reasonable accommodation' with you (like the scan station or lift-assist) and not just say no (42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(5); Minn. Stat. § 363A.08). Skipping that back-and-forth (the 'interactive process') can be its own violation, with its own deadline. - [] [URGENT] The severance agreement asks you to release ALL claims — including the discrimination and accommodation claims — for the payment. Do NOT sign it without legal advice first, and note the sign-by date is a CONTRACT deadline set by the employer, not a legal filing deadline. If you do sign, Minnesota law gives you 15 days afterward to cancel the release of your state human-rights claims (Minn. Stat. § 363A.31). Would you like this reviewed before the sign-by date? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 363A.31 (15-day rescission right after signing a release of MHRA claims); a severance release generally waives ADA/MHRA/FMLA claims]
- [] [URGENT] You said you worked 50+ hour weeks but were paid straight time. In Minnesota you are generally owed time-and-a-half for hours over 48 in a week (Minn. Stat. § 177.25), and federal law may require it over 40 (29 U.S.C. § 207). Unpaid overtime can be a big part of what you are owed. Do you have a record of your weekly hours? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 177.25 (MFLSA overtime: time-and-a-half over 48 hrs/week); 29 U.S.C. § 207 (FLSA over 40 hrs/week if covered)]
- [] [URGENT] You were put on unpaid medical leave but say no one mentioned FMLA or gave you any FMLA paperwork. For an eligible employee at a large employer, failing to offer and designate FMLA leave can be unlawful 'interference' (29 U.S.C. § 2615). Eligibility depends on hours worked and employer size. About how many hours did you work in the year before the leave, and how big is the site? [Authority: 29 U.S.C. § 2615; 29 C.F.R. § 825.300 (FMLA interference — failure to designate/notify FMLA leave for an eligible employee)]

- Procedural Requirement (Priority 86): You said you worked 50+ hour weeks but were paid straight time. In Minnesota you are generally owed time-and-a-half for hours over 48 in a week (Minn. Stat. § 177.25), and federal law may require it over 40 (29 U.S.C. § 207). Unpaid overtime can be a big part of what you are owed. Do you have a record of your weekly hours? [Authority: Minn. - Procedural Requirement (Priority 88): You asked your boss about overtime and were fired the same day. Firing or punishing a worker for asking about unpaid wages or overtime is illegal retaliation in Minnesota (Minn. Stat. § 181.03, subd. 6; § 177.32). The timing matters a lot here. Do you have the texts or messages showing you asked about overtime right before you were fired? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 181.03, subd. 6 (retaliation for asserting wage rights); Minn. Stat. § 177.32 (MFLSA anti-retaliation)]
 - See Action Item #7
- Procedural Requirement (Priority 90): Separate from being fired, the law required your employer to seriously discuss a 'reasonable accommodation' with you (like the scan station or lift-assist) and not just say no (42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(5); Minn. Stat. § 363A.08). Skipping that back-and-forth (the 'interactive process') can be its own violation, with its own deadline. Did anyone ever actually discuss other job options with you before denying it? [Authority: 42 U.S.C. § 12112(b)(5) (ADA failure to accommodate / interactive process); Minn. Stat. § 363A.08 (MHRA disability accommodation)]
