Asking a court to protect you. If someone has hurt you or made you afraid, you can ask a court for an Order for Protection (sometimes called a restraining order). It is a free request you can make yourself: the court clerk's office or a local advocate can give you the forms and walk you through them, often the same day. A domestic violence advocate (reachable through the hotline above) can help you fill them out and can go with you.

You get to decide what feels safe for you. The steps above are here whenever you are ready.

Read this first. Missing a legal deadline can end a case. The dates below are estimates generated automatically — always confirm the exact date with the court or a lawyer.

□ The bank sent me a letter dated June 26th saying they flagged unusual activity and want me to come in. — DEADLINE MAY HAVE PASSED

- Estimated deadline: 2026-07-06
- Basis: The cure/vacate period stated in your written notice or lease — the notice/lease term is the operative source of this period (confirm the exact deadline printed on the notice; your state's landlord-tenant statute governs the minimum period).
- Triggering event: notice posted on 2026-06-26

- Jurisdiction: MN
 - WARNING: this deadline appears to have ALREADY PASSED as of 2026-07-11. Estimated — confirm the exact date with the court or a lawyer. Executive Summary

This intake identified 9 possible legal issues in Minnesota. The main concerns are Financial Elder Abuse (using an older person's money or property without permission), Invalid Power of Attorney (a document that may not be legally valid), and Elder Abuse (harming or neglecting an older person). IMPORTANT: At least one deadline may have already passed — The bank sent a letter dated June 26th saying they noticed strange activity on my account and want me to come in. (computed 2026-07-06) [The cure/vacate period mentioned in your written notice or lease — this is the time frame that applies (check the exact deadline stated in the notice; the landlord-tenant law in your state will dictate the minimum time allowed).] Confirm this right away, as missing deadlines can end a case. There are also safety concerns mentioned here; refer to the safety resources provided below. The analysis is about 75% complete; answering the 17 follow-up questions below would improve the assessment.

Follow-up Steps

- [] [URGENT] PAST-DUE? Confirm the deadline for: The bank sent me a letter dated June 26th saying they flagged unusual activity and want me to come in. (estimated 2026-07-06; The cure/vacate period stated in your written notice or lease — the notice/lease term is the operative source of this period (confirm the exact deadline printed on the notice; your state's landlord-tenant statute governs the minimum period).). WARNING: this deadline appears to have ALREADY PASSED as of 2026-07-11. Estimated — confirm the exact date with the court or a lawyer. If this notice period has already passed, act now rather than assume it is over: depending on your state you may still be able to cure, raise defenses at any hearing, or ask the court to vacate a judgment entered against you. Contact the court or a lawyer immediately.

◦ Deadline: 2026-07-06

- [] [URGENT] Confirm the deadline for: there's some appointment on July 16th where I'm apparently supposed to sign listing papers. (estimated 2026-07-16; The court's own summons, hearing notice, or scheduling order setting this date — a court's order or summons is the governing primary authority for a court-scheduled appearance (confirm the date against the document itself).). This is a date the court gave you directly (a hearing, court date, or stated deadline). Estimated — confirm the exact date with the court or a lawyer.

◦ Deadline: 2026-07-16

- [] [URGENT] You asked if you can 'undo' the power of attorney. Yes — as long as your mind is clear, you can revoke it at any time with a signed, dated writing, and it takes effect against others (like the bank) once they actually get notice (Minn. Stat. § 523.11). The key step is delivering written revocation to BOTH your son and the bank right away. Would you like help doing that this week? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 523.11, subd. 1 (a competent principal may revoke a power of attorney by a signed, dated writing; effective as to a third party on actual notice)]
- [] [URGENT] What you described — being physically hurt or threatened by a family or household member — may qualify you for an Order for Protection (a court order that can be issued the same day you ask, before any hearing). In Minnesota this is Minn. Stat. § 518B.01; other states have an equivalent. Would you like information about asking the court for one now, separate from any other case? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 518B.01 (Order for Protection; ex parte relief available)]
- [] [URGENT] Because you may be a 'vulnerable adult' (relying on your son for care after surgery), there is a special court order that can quickly FREEZE the account draining and block the house

- sale — an Order for Protection Against Financial Exploitation of a Vulnerable Adult (Minn. Stat. § 609.2334), which a judge can issue right away in an emergency. This can also be reported to the state (MAARC, Minn. Stat. § 626.557). Would you like to ask the court for this before the July 16 appointment? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 609.2334 (Order for Protection Against Financial Exploitation of a Vulnerable Adult — ex parte relief available); Minn. Stat. § 626.557 (vulnerable-adult reporting / MAARC)]
- [] [URGENT] Even under a power of attorney, your son could pay himself or transfer your money to himself ONLY if the document specifically allowed it (Minn. Stat. § 523.24) — if that box was left blank, those transfers and the 'caregiver pay' likely exceeded his authority, revocation or not. A missing notary can also make the whole POA invalid (Minn. Stat. § 523.01). Do you have the actual POA document so a lawyer can check what was and wasn't authorized? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 523.24 (statutory short-form POA authorizes self-gifting/self-transfers only if expressly elected); Minn. Stat. § 523.01 (valid POA requires acknowledgment)]
 - [] [URGENT] Your son grabbed your wrist hard enough to bruise and threatened you in your own home. Because he is a family/household member, you can ask for an Order for Protection that a judge can grant the same day (Minn. Stat. § 518B.01); a Harassment Restraining Order (Minn. Stat. § 609.748) is a backup. This is separate from the money issues. Do you have the photo of the bruise and would you feel safer with such an order? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 518B.01 (Order for Protection — a son living in the home is a family/household member; ex parte relief); Minn. Stat. § 609.748 (Harassment Restraining Order fallback)]
 - [] [URGENT] You mentioned paying extra money (like a cash pet deposit) with no receipt. Deposits are regulated — in Minnesota the landlord must account for them, pay interest, and return them with an itemized statement (Minn. Stat. § 504B.178); other states have an equivalent. A cash payment with no receipt can still count. How much did you pay, when, and do you have any proof

(texts, witnesses, bank withdrawal)? [Authority: Minn. Stat. § 504B.178 (security deposits: receipt, interest, return); § 504B.172]
